GUARD OFFICERS
VISIT LEXINGTON

Leave Staunton Camp for Half Day to Inspect Virginia Military Institute.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Lexington, Va., May 28.—The National Guard officers who are in camp at Staunton took a half holiday today and proceeded by special train to inspect the Virginia Military Institute. They left Staunton this afternoon at 3 o'clock, arriving in Lexington at 4:30 o'clock.

They were driven at once to barracks where General Vaughan, accompanied by all of his officers and the army instructors, made an inspection of quarters. On this inspection the visiting officers were accompanied by General Nicholas, the commandant, and Colonel Eglin, the army detail. The inspection of quarters was immediately followed by Butts manual on the hill by battalion, the battalion being under the command of Captain Deague. The officers expressed themselves as delighted with this exercise, the battalion in white ducks and white shirts making a splendid appearance and executing the exercise with great precision. Butts manual was followed by battalion parade, preceded by review, the commandant taking the review and General Nicholas with General Vaughan, accompanied by all the officers reviewing the battalion. The corps made a fine showing in their spring full dress.

The visiting officers present were as follows: General C. C. Vaughan, the army inspector-instructors, Major Jenks, Lieutenant Goodwin and Lieutenant Boswell and Lieutenant-Colonel J. Lane Stern, Major Allen Potts, Captain James W. Graves, Captain Charles M. Wallace, Major Edgar W. Bowles, Lieutenant J. Randolph Tucker, First Lieutenant Randolph A. S. C. First Lieutenant William B. Hopkins, Captain William G. Fuller, Jr. and Second Lieutenant James B. Fuller, Captain Richard M. Bidgood, First Lieutenant Matthew F. James and Second Lieutenant Pontaine James, Captain James McGraw, Jr., and First Lieutenant E. W. Gates, Captain John A. Cutchin, First Lieutenant J. C. Hutcheson and Second Lieutenant James G. Earnest, Major Lawrence T. Price, First Lieutenant Charles D. Sneed, Second Lieutenant Harry F. Levering, First Lieutenant John Krause, Jr., and Second Lieutenant James E. Cherry, Captain William A. Stack, First Lieutenant Luther T. Matthews and Second Lieutenant Charles Chapman; Captain Charles B. Coulbourn, First Lieutenant Robert M. Dashiell and Second Lieutenant Frank E. Platt; Captain Alvah R. Cousins, First Lieutenant James E. Peters, Major John Fulmer Bright, M. D., Captain Giles B. Cook, M. D., Captain A. A. Marsteller, M. D., Captain H. Norton Mason, M. D.

SITE INSPECTED
FOR ENCAMPMENT

Officers Greatly Pleased With Montgomery Hall Property, Near Staunton.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Staunton, Va., May 28.—The military board and United States Army officers today inspected the Montgomery Hall property for use for the encampment of the militia, and were greatly pleased with it, as it is an ideal location on the outskirts of Staunton on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, with city water, electric lights and street cars. The space necessary for a brigade camp, 900 by 300 feet, is available, with drill grounds. It is a handsome Colonial estate, owned by Bates Warren, of Washington city, formerly the home of the Peytons. The city of Staunton is ready to pledge a suitable place for the camp, if the board will agree to bring the camp here.

The Norfolk and Southern has failed to accede to the terms of the board, claiming it will cost the road to lay a spur track not less than $4,000. If the road holds out the chances seem favorable for bringing the camp to the mountains to Staunton.

and by Southern men. He pointed out that far too many outsiders go North every year for technical education.

Tendency of the Age.

Dr. Taylor asserted that the consolidation is in line with the present tendency in medicine all over the country, which is toward fewer and better schools and doctors. The profession, he said, is overcrowded. There is one doctor in this country for every 500 of population and the average income of the American doctor is less than $500 a year. This means, he says, that the amalgamation of schools, the raising of requirements and the elimination of the unfit, must go much farther.

Others who spoke were Dr. J. Allison Hodges, Dr. Edward McGuire and Dr. Benjamin K. Hays. After the meeting the alumni, faculty and trustees adjourned to Dr. Stuart McGuire's home, where a reception was held. At 1 o'clock this afternoon, the students will give a luncheon to the faculty, graduates and visiting alumni at the Hermitage Club. At 3:30 o'clock, the graduating exercises will be held at the Academy of Music. Dr. Benjamin K. Hays, of Oxford, N. C., will deliver the address to the graduates.

tions of the year 1912, showing the disposition of all funds that were presented. Mr. Passmore declared the proposed act discriminated against mutual life insurance companies.

Discusses Income Tax Bill.

Representative Hull, of Tennessee, author of the income tax section of the bill, was in conference with Senators Williams and Shively for several hours, going over the protests which have been filed. Mr. Hull pointed out later that the two chief features of the section which have been under fire were the clauses taxing the graduated tax—the surtax upon incomes over $20,000—and the provision for taxation of dividends of insurance companies.

Both of these provisions are beyond criticism, in my opinion," Mr. Hull said. "The graduated tax has been approved by the Federal Judiciary in the New Jersey District Court, and the Court of Appeals sustained the validity of such graduated tax plans."

The Senate committee, however, will study the insurance feature of the bill very thoroughly, and some members are reported not to be satisfied with its provisions as affecting mutual companies.

Senator Pittman, of Nevada, accompanied by Senator Hughes, of New Jersey, called at the White House today and told the President that he did not hold the views of his colleague, Senator Newlands, relating to the tariff bill. He is counted upon to support the administration on sugar and wool.

Senator Cummins plans to call up for consideration in the Senate tomorrow his resolution directing the appointment of a subcommittee to investigate the presence of a tariff lobby in Washington, as emphasized in the recent declaration against lobbyists by President Wilson.

Democratic leaders asserted today that there would be no organized opposition to the resolution, and it probably will be adopted.

LOBBYISTS IN FORCE

Wait in Corridors While Subcommittee Wrestles With Tariff.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, May 28.—With their coats off and their sleeves rolled up, the members of the subcommittee of the Finance Committee, behind closed doors, today waded through the mass of oral and written proposed changes in the Underwood tariff bill placed before them by representatives of business interests during the past two weeks.

In the corridors, outside the committee rooms, were about a hundred "lobbyists," who had journeyed to Washington in the hope of beating the Democrats to extend oral hearings. For the most part they had to content themselves with filing briefs with the committee, through A. F. Gorstall, president of the Alpha Portland Cement Company, of Easton, Pa., succeeded in having the taboo against personal interviews set aside on behalf of the cement men.

Gerstall stated that the Underwood duty on cement, 5 cents a barrel, would give the Canadian manufacturers of this commodity an unfair advantage over American trade. He asked Senator Williams to provide a duty of 20 cents a barrel. The Payne-Aldrich rate was 32 cents a barrel.

A brief was also filed with the Finance Committee by William Rosenfeld, of New York, stating that an increase of more than 10 per cent on cut diamonds would lay the importers in this country open to the machinations of smugglers. Rosenfeld stated that a high duty on gems would mean an increase of 100 per cent in smuggling. He represented the Diamond Trade Tariff League of New York, an organization whose membership comprised more than three-quarters of the diamond merchants in the United States.

In response to a request from Senator Williams, Vice-President Lincoln K. Passmore, of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, submitted a brief showing the expenditures of his company for the past year. Senator Williams stated that he wished to discover the exact degree of benefit a mutual life insurance company conferred upon its policyholders before taking any action on the provisions of the income tax amendment to the Underwood bill affecting insurance companies. Passmore stated there had been no encroachment upon the payments to policyholders through the expenditures of his company, and stated that the income tax as applied to mutual insurance organizations would work a great hardship upon these who were policyholding members.

Though it was said at the rooms where the subcommittee were holding session that no definite changes in the Underwood bill were ready for the public there was a well defined rumor that most of the important revisions in the Senate document had been agreed upon and that the conference over the protests of business representatives were a mere matter of form.

This belief was strengthened by the assertion of Representative Peters, of Massachusetts, who had charge of the administrative feature of the Underwood bill in the House, that a "great many changes were being seriously considered."

Peters, together with Representative Hull, of Tennessee, who framed the income tax amendment were in conference with Senator Williams's subcommittee for the greater part of the day.

Senator Simmons, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, called upon Secretary of State Bryan today to discuss certain features of the Underwood tariff act, particularly the clause providing a 5 per cent drawback on all imports brought to American shores in ships of American register, France and Germany have objected to this clause as a violation of the "most favored nation" provision in existing treaties. It was agreed to bring the protests of the two foreign governments before the house committee on Ways and Means, and simultaneously their legal and international aspects will be considered.

PLANS FOR PARK ON RIVER FRONT

City Engineer Instructed to Prepare Drawings—Want Underground Maps.

City Engineer Bolling was directed by the Administrative Board yesterday, on motion of Mr. Hirschberg, to furnish plans for a city park along James River, between Nicholson Street and the eastern corporation limits, Lester Street and the river. The hillside and water front are owned by the city and rough estimates of improvement place the initial cost at $25,000 to park the tract. The clerk was instructed to write to the E. Sanford Ross Company, now doing dredging for the United States government in the river, for a proposition to furnish 100,000 cubic yards of earth to be pumped on the Fulton flats, Lester Street, and other city property in that vicinity to raise it above freshet damage.

On motion of Captain McCarthy the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, the Virginia Railway and Power Company, the Western Union Telegraph Company, and others having conduits and construction in the city streets beneath the surface, were requested to furnish the City Engineer with accurate maps showing all their lines.

The request of St. Luke's Episcopal Sunday school for the use of Joseph Bryan Park for a picnic on June 26 was granted.

Superintendent Henry Cohn, of the Street Cleaning Department, reported that the capacity of the old city crematory on St. John Street, was insufficient to take care of the garbage from the township of Barton Heights. His letter was ordered forwarded to H. K. Iphig, chairman of the health committee of Barton Heights.

Superintendent of the Water Works reported that he had examined the swimming pool at the Male Orphan Asylum, and had found it made of boards and not water tight. A condemnation could be made with a city main for about $10, and the pool would need about 500 gallons of water a day. A copy of the letter was sent to Mrs. J. R. Gill, superintendent.

U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals reconvened at 11 o'clock yesterday morning with Senior Circuit Judge Pritchard, Circuit Judge Knapp and District Judge Connor sitting. The following case was argued:

No. 119—Keen B. Smith vs. Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company; cross-writ of error to the District Court of the United States for the Eastern District of South Carolina, at Columbia. Argued by W. F. Stevenson and C. L. Truitt for the plaintiff, and by Keen B. Smith, and B. A. Hagood, of Charleston, S. C., and F. L. Wilcox, of Florence, S. C., for the defendant.

C. L. Truitt, of Cheraw, S. C., was admitted to practice in this court.

Case in call to-day: No. 112—William V. Thrush, plaintiff in error, vs. Iva Lea Farnhart, defendant in error. In error to the District Court of the United States for the Northern District of West Virginia, at Martinsburg. To be argued by William MacDonnell and F. C. Reynolds, of Keyser, W. Va., for the plaintiff in error, and by W. H. Griffith of Keyser, W. Va., and R. A. Heavilin, of Marion, Ind., for the defendant in error.

Senator Bland Massey, of Nelson County, spent yesterday in the city and was a caller at the Capitol offices. He was on his way home from Washington, where he had been with a delegation desiring better Southern Railway station facilities at Abingest.

and William F. Meredith, of Washington; Granville Gaines and Dr. Douglas, of Warrenton, and Frank R. Pemberton, of New York.

The funeral services will be conducted by Dr. Hicks, of the Episcopal Church.

His Distinguished Career.

Major-General Lunsford Lindsay Lomax, a distinguished officer of the Confederate States provisional army, who rose from the rank of captain to that of major-general in the Army of Northern Virginia, was born at Newport, R. I., the son of Mann Page Lomax, of Virginia, a major of ordnance in the United States Army. His mother, Elizabeth Lindsay, was a descendant of Captain Lindsay, who commanded a company in the Light Horse Cavalry of Harry Lee during the Revolution, and lost an arm in the War for Independence. His father, also, was of an old Virginia family. Young Lomax was educated in the schools of Richmond and Norfolk, and was appointed cadet-at-large, July 1, 1852, to the Military Academy at West Point, where he was graduated July 1, 1856, and promoted to a brevet lieutenant in the Second Cavalry. He served on frontier duty in Kansas, Nebraska and Texas. April 23, 1861, he offered his services to Virginia, and was appointed captain in the State forces April 28. He was at once assigned to the staff of General Joseph E. Johnston, as assistant adjutant-general, and later was transferred to the field of operations beyond the Mississippi, as inspector-general upon the staff of the gallant Pagan, Brigadier-General McCulloch, who commanded a division of Van Dorn's army. After McCulloch fell he was promoted inspector-general on the staff of Major-General Earl Van Dorn, with the rank of lieutenant-colonel. He served in this capacity from July, 1862, until October, when he was made inspector-general of the Army of East Tennessee. While with the Western army he participated in the battle of Pea Ridge, Ark.; Farmington and Corinth, Miss.; the first defense of Vicksburg from siege; Baton Rouge, La.; Spring Hill and Thompson Station, Tenn. On February 8, 1863, he was promoted colonel and called to the Eastern campaigns. As colonel of the Eleventh Virginia Cavalry, in W. E. Jones's brigade, he participated in the battles of Brandy Station, Winchester, Gettysburg and Buckland. On July 22, 1863, he was promoted brigadier-general and assigned to the command of a brigade of cavalry organized for him of the Fifth, Sixth and Fifteenth Virginia Regiments, and the First Maryland Cavalry. Under his command this brigade was one of the principal factors in the subsequent operations of Fitz Lee's division, including the fighting at Culpeper Court-house, Morton's Ford, the second encounter at Brandy Station, Todd's Tavern, the Wilderness campaign, Cold Harbor, Yellow Tavern, Reams's Station, Trevilian's, and the subsequent engagements led to his promotion, August 10, 1864, to the rank of major-general. He was given command of a

MEET AT WINSTON-SALEM
NORTH CAROLINA DENTISTS

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Winston-Salem, N. C., May 28.—An interesting and enthusiastic session held in the auditorium of the city high school opened the thirty-ninth annual meeting of the North Carolina Dental Society, which will continue through Friday. There were about 200 local and out of town dentists in attendance. The meeting was opened with an invocation by Rev. E. I. Bain, of the Centenary Methodist Church, after which Colonel J. L. Ludlow delivered an address of welcome, response being made by Dr. J. H. Wheeler of Greensboro. The annual essay, "Dental Jurisprudence," was ably given by Dr. R. T. Allen, of Lumberton. The meeting then adjourned until Thursday morning.

division composed of the cavalry brigades of Bradley T. Johnson, W. L. Jackson, Henry B. Davidson, J. D. Imboden and John McCausland, and rendered prominent and distinguished service in the Valley campaign of the army under General Early, at the battles of Winchester, Tom's Brook and other encounters. At the battle of Woodstock, October 9, he was made a prisoner by Torbert's Cavalry, but made his escape about three hours later by personally overthrowing his captor. On October 31 he was assigned to the command of the cavalry wing of the army under Early, and on March 29, 1865, was put in entire command of the Valley district of the Department of Northern Virginia. After the fall of Richmond he moved his forces to Lynchburg, and when Lee surrendered sent the news to General Echols, with whom he endeavored to form a junction with the remnants of his own, Fitz Lee's and Rosser's Divisions. He succeeded in joining the army in North Carolina, and surrendered his division to Johnston, at Greensboro. Thence he returned to Greensboro County, Va., and engaged in farming, to which he devoted himself during the succeeding years until 1889, when he was called to the presidency of the college at Blacksburg. He resigned this position after five years' service. For several years he had been engaged in the official compilation of the records of the war, at Washington, D. C.
